

FUTURE OF GAME IS YET UNCERTAIN

Virginia Authorities Will Await Action of Rules Committee.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., November 18.—When asked to-day if Virginia would follow the step taken by Georgetown and abolish football, President Alderman replied that the question would not be considered until after the annual meeting of the rules committee, set for December 29, in New York. A member of the faculty committee on athletics, speaking on the same subject, expressed the belief that Virginia would follow the action taken in the matter by the Intercollegiate Athletic Association of the United States, of which the university is a member. This association holds its annual meeting in New York on the day preceding the session of the rules committee. Throughout college the opinion prevails that the game will not be discontinued here. The belief is expressed on all hands that the rules committee, in view of the numerous deaths and accidents during the past season, will make a determined effort to eliminate the dangerous features, and will accomplish much good in that direction.

YALE STARS MUST BE WELDED INTO TEAM

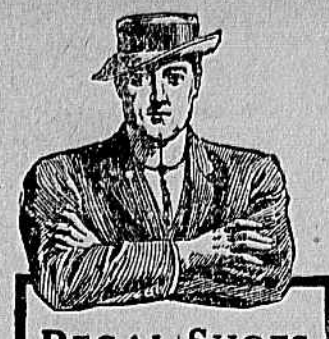

Lack of Team Work May Result in Harvard Victory in Stadium.

CRIMSON A POWERFUL RIVAL

Neutral Class Believes Game Saturday Will Be Greatest Ever Fought.

There are at least three viewpoints from which to look forward to next Saturday's Yale-Harvard football game, and every one of them is interesting in itself. Two, naturally, comprise the opinions of Yale men and Harvard enthusiasts. Then comes that of the strictly neutral party. If there can be any such being where the outcome of a big football game is concerned—who wants to see a spirited, evenly contested struggle regardless of who is evolved the victor.
The views of the first two classes can be put in the class of the interesting. The latter, however, they are so warped by the wish that is father to the thought that one hesitates to accept them. They have been carefully analyzed and are 50 per cent discounted. Logically, Yale men can see nothing but a Blue victory ahead. Just as firmly do the loyal sons of Harvard foresee nothing but a glorious triumph over their legendary foes, a set of multifarious, al fresco cakewalk, with Old Bill parading in the lead, while Johnny Harvard disports himself.

To the man up a tree—and that is exactly the position of the third, or neutral, class—the game which is scheduled for Saturday is going to be the greatest in the history of the sport, and never-say-die fighting that has ever been contested between the Blue and the Crimson. He has tradition in some measure to back up this belief, for while Yale has the great preponderance of the games safely stowed in her locker she has always known that she has been in a good scrap before the coveted championship has been hung in the gymnasium trophy case at New Haven. But more than tradition, the work of both eleven this year warrants and supports the belief that it is a case of Greek meeting Greek. Saturday will be the chances slightly in favor of the Blue.
Taken individually and on paper, the Harvard team has been made by some to appear slightly inferior to the Yale eleven. But paper comparisons never have been established as a rule to win football games by, and anyhow to offset this apparent advantage for the Blue, there is team work of such high class in that Crimson aggregation, such helping of the runner in every play—not as with Yale, in the case—such splendid morale, that if Old Bill wins on Saturday it will be because eleven individual stars have been welded into a star eleven. Unless Yale's team play improves by 100 per cent over that shown against Princeton, and unless the attack is driven home and not stopped on some five-yard mark, because of a linemen blocking the hole, Yale is going to get some bumps in the Stadium that she will never forget.
At the door of "new" football may be laid much of the credit about the outcome of the game's adoption of the "new" game should be mentioned the very consistent and successful development of a line attack at Harvard

REGAL SHOES For Young Men

In our large showing of new Regal Fall styles there are some more pronounced models for those who prefer the extreme fashions of the season.

These smart Regal styles will appeal to every young man in town. They can not be duplicated in any other ready-to-wear shoes—nor can other shoes give the exact fit you get in Regal quarter sizes.

Whether there is another Ver Wiebe among Harvard backs is a question that can be answered only after 5 P. M. next Saturday afternoon. If Minot is able to smash out the tackles as Ver Wiebe did last year, they'll be in trouble brewin' for Old Bill. And it must not be forgotten that what one good heavy back can be taught to do another can also do. So it will not be surprising to see the open field work of Hobbs and Lilley proceed much more slowly against Harvard than it did against the Tigers. They'll be kept too busy stopping those tackle drives to blocking many kicks or spinning back of the Harvard line.
It's a tradition at New Haven that Harvard has never won twice in succession from the Blue. Well, that same tradition existed with regard to Princeton just before the 1899 game. And then one little Arthur Poe upset form, tradition, hope, and everything else, by kicking a goal from the field in the last half-minute to play, doing the unexpected as he had the year previous when he kicked the length of the field for the only touchdown of the contest. Yale undergraduates may be optimists to the extent of betting a pair of socks that the Harvard team, which they were doing last Saturday, but neither Yale alumni nor the public are going to suite off any such place of safety as that. The Harvard team is too good to be rated as anything but an even-money proposition, and if the Harvard team is all that Harvard has a right to expect. It is probably all she will get, at any rate, from the discerning.

EXPECT TO DEFEAT ORANGE AND WHITE

Spiders Are Crippled, But Hope to Win From William and Mary To-Morrow.

Although the local college will have to put a crippled team on the field to-morrow, there are strong hopes of winning from the William and Mary representatives.

The most noticeable loss in the Spiders' line-up is Mills, the husky full back, whose work was the cause of victory over Hampden-Sidney. This conspicuous line-plunger is out of the game with a dislocated shoulder. It is hard to believe that he will recover from his injuries in time for the big game Thanksgiving Day. Not only is Mills on the injured list, but several others are in the same predicament, and at the very time that their services are most needed.
But, notwithstanding the fact that they have a crippled team, the locals expect to land the championship trophy this season. In order to do this, both William and Mary must be defeated. Macon must be defeated. The Williamsburg boys will meet the Spiders with a fresh team, as they have not had a game for the past two weeks.

TEAM EXPECTING STRENUOUS GAME

William and Mary Practicing Hard for Richmond College Game.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
WILLIAMSBURG, Va., November 18.—This afternoon the William and Mary football team went through its last scrimmage before the game with Richmond College, which will take place at Broad Street Park, Richmond, next Saturday. The scrimmage was a hard one; every man was in earnest, as they realized that Saturday's game will be a strenuous one, and the student body is expecting them to do for Richmond College what the team of last season did for that college one year ago.
The enthusiasm of the students is at a high pitch, and it is expected that a large crowd of students and townspeople will go from here to see the game.
